av that Assemblyman Brooks has an under-standing with several prometers of influence in one is fined a bottle of Scotch. A point that stunding with several prometers of influence and that when his bill appears it will be carefully drawn and fill needed reforms. No natter how the matter is handled the fact remains that when boxing comes before the Legislature again it must be with such modifications as to provent the souses that have killed the sport here and elsewhere. Assemblyman Lewis, whose efforts resulted in the ropeal of the Horton law, says he will be just as vigorous in opposing any attempt to get as vigorous in opposing any attempt to get a bill through legalizing the sport.

Lewis says that prize fighting must be stamped out and that the sport is brutal beyond anything ever seen by human beings. Assemblyman Brooks on the other hand argues that boxing, properly conducted and hept free from suspicion, is a healthful sport that every young man should indulge in. Horace and Harry Rawlins have been engaged for the winter by the Oakland Cal., Golf Club. It is the second visit of Horace Rawlins, who was the American open champion of 1895, to the Facilio Coast, for last winter again. He is not an advocate of the fighting, he says, but believes a lively sparring match between well-trained scientific men is harmless, even if a few hard blows are struck. Assemblyman Brooks has received hundreds of letters from boxing enthusiasts all over the State pointing out possible benefits and calling his attention to the fact that there are other sports more dangerous than boxing that are permitted to flourish. Many persons have written that football is more hazardous than boxing and they point to the many gridiron accidents of a serious nature to emphasize their argument.

Others have pointed to the recent six days.

Others have pointed to the recent six days' voie race and its results as illustrative of the comparative harmlessness of boxing with stuffed gloves. Wrestling is also alluded to as a much rougher pastime than sparring, especially when the strangle hold is not barred. In fact, boxing enthusiasts are kind of luck. Each man started out to shoot profuse with suggestions, all of which, if taken seriously, go to show that glove con-tests have never been more than the friendlest tapping matches and that if they are ever allowed again they will be even more mark stood: Brewer, killed 47; missed, 3. affectionate. The leaders of the Protective Association of Professional Baseball Players are trying to find out, they say, whether the members of the organization want to indulge in warfare or not in the event of a further turndown at the hands of the National League. Some players have replied to the circular letter sent out by President Zimmer and Secretary Jennings that they will stick it out to the end and if they are ordered to keep from signing for a year they will "go to work." Other players, it appears, are not so anxious for trouble and believe that it is best to get as much salary as they can for next year. The talk of a salary limit in the National League of $2,000 has been the cause of much speculation among the players, also some little apprehension. Some of the "real anarchists, among the players want to declare war at once and sign contracts with the American League.

"Be willing to shoulder some of the loases," say the "anarchists" to their companions, "and then when the profits come later, be ready to share them." Altogether the ball players are in a quandary, out of which they will doubtless emerge when snowballs become scarce. The magnates are banking on one scarce. There is a great deal of work to be done here to get ready for the Shamrock II. Arrangements have to be made for docking the yacht, for the reception and storage of her spars, for a tender for the use of the crew, a barge for the extra spars that may be brought over, a tugboat and lots of other things. All this business can be much more easily transacted by my talking with Sir Thomas Lipton than by letter and that I believe is the reason of my going to London. About the yacht you must excuse my not talking at present. The yacht is being built and she will cost considerably more than the last Shamrock, but I cannot tell you the cause of the extra expense, because that would be giving the defenders a good idea of the plans of Sir Thomas Lipton. I don't expect to be away long and shall be back next month to make all arrangements for the reception and fitting out of the challenger and for the lifting of the Cup if that is possible.
